The multidisciplinary minor in Legal Foundations of Society provides students with an exposure to the legal underpinnings of society from a liberal arts perspective. It is intended for students interested in the intersection of legal and social issues. It is not intended as a "pre-law" program, but rather, as a means of providing a foundational understanding of the ways society constructs and uses its legal systems.

The Legal Foundations of Society minor requires the completion of five courses for at least 15 credit hours, including at least two foundational courses. Students must take courses from at least three departments. Only one course may be from the student's major department, and may not be counted on the major. At least two (2) courses for at least six (6) hours must be taken at the 3000-level or higher. A student is permitted to overlap up to 6 credit hours between the GE and the minor.
